Shae Earles
Certified Emergency Nurse/Paramedic
UNC Health Rex

Shae Earles is a Certified Emergency Nurse/Paramedic with over 27 years of experience in Emergency Services working in the Emergency Department and multiple EMS agencies throughout North Carolina. She is currently employed at UNC Health Rex as a nurse leader in the Emergency Department. In addition to her supervisory and bedside clinical duties, Shae also functions as the EMS Nurse Liaison and works with the Chest Pain Program as a Clinical Data Analyst. Additionally, Shae teaches Advanced Life Support for both adult cardiac and pediatric patient populations as well as the Trauma Nursing Core Course. Shae has spearheaded and continues to support process improvement for many innovative programs. She has fostered long standing relationships through collaboration with local hospitals and EMS agencies alike to bring state-of-the-art care to our community for heart attack, stroke, cardiac arrest, and sepsis patients. Shae's love for emergency medicine, cardiac care, and process improvement fuels her desire to optimize patient care while promoting community education and wellness.
