

Environmental Compliance Conference

FEBRUARY 3, 2021 | VIRTUAL

Renee Kramer
Environmental Justice Coordinator
North Carolina Department of Environmental Quality

Renee Kramer graduated from the University of Delaware in 2013 with a degree in Wildlife Conservation & Agriculture and Natural Resources. Upon graduation, she worked for a private consultant with wind energy conducting wildlife impact surveys. In 2015, Kramer continued her studies at Duke University's Nicholas School of the Environment for Ecosystem Science and Conservation, receiving her Master of Environmental Management and a certificate in community-based environmental management. She has been with the Department of Environmental Quality (NCDEQ) for just over three years and serves as the Title VI and Environmental Justice (EJ) Coordinator. In this role, she acts as the liaison between the EJ and Equity Advisory Board and works with communities and staff to advance the Department's EJ programs across the state.
